MTF:
Some male-to-female transsexuals have reported on the ability to ejaculate through the urethra after quality surgery.

FTM: Transmen have reported that after taking testosterone, they have still been able to ejaculate.

The Crystal Wand -
this one hits my

what toys do you use for g-spot stimulation?

i use the crystal wand.
i like the hard intense stimulation and enjoy clitoral lover enjoys the jelly crystal g both are available at the woman owned and operated co op, good vibrations.

what am i poking at?

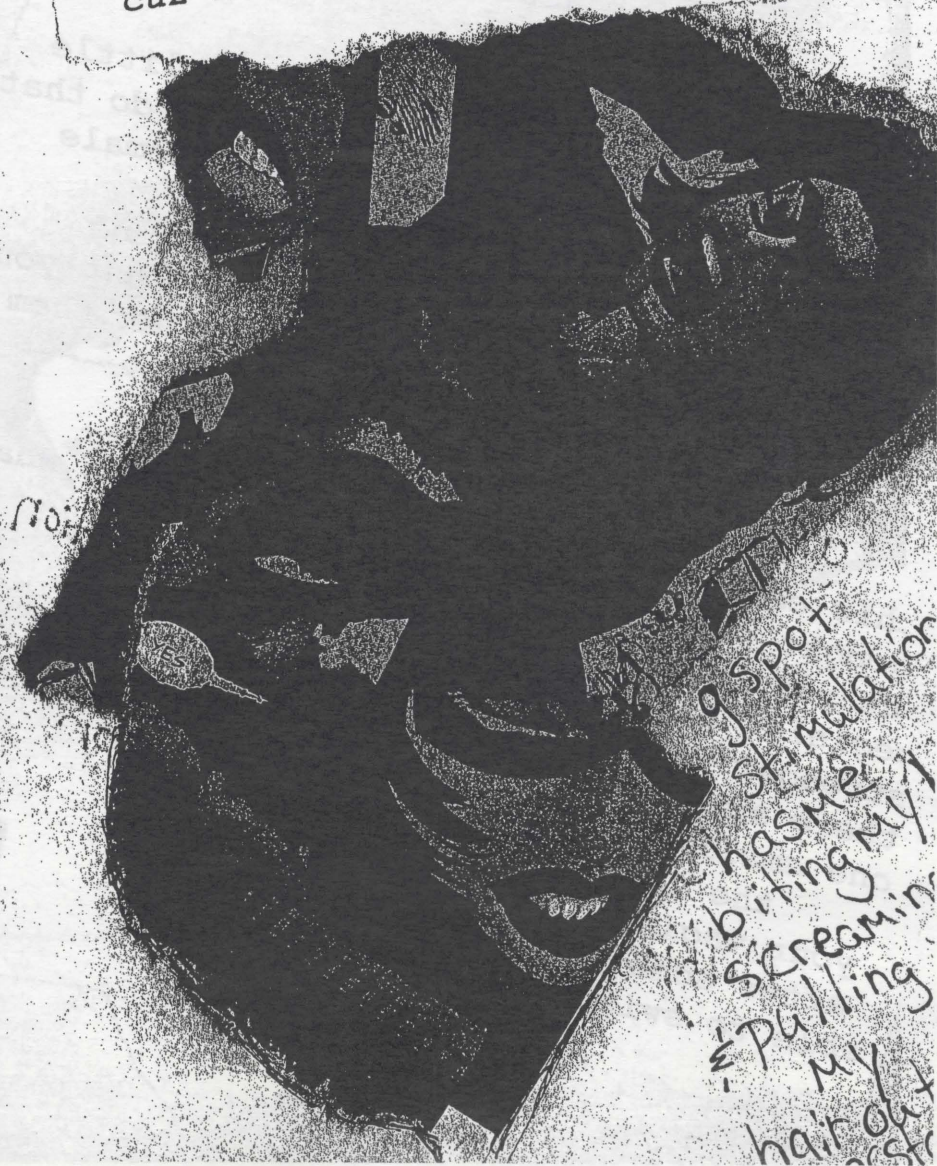

the g spot is a mound of spongy tissue (paraurethral tissue) surrounding the woman's urethra the tissue swells when we get all hot and bothered.

*arousal causes the g spot to swell and makes it easier to find.

what does intense g spot stimulation feel like?

sometimes it feels like your going to pee and you just have to let everything go cuz it ain't pee thats cum'n'

Words that make me

Dildo
vibrator

think hmmm...
icky gooeey white goo shoot it out
g-spot messy female ejaculation
Wet squirt wet spot
Wet in the sheets spurt clear liquid

-not all ejaculate shoots across the room

sometimes it just squirts a little or seeps out one exercise to do that helps in squirting out our female ejaculate is kegels. the muscles that you use during sex or to hold your pee or that you use during masturbating. flex them. the more the better.

this can actually rid certain women of what thought was lower back pain but was really out of shape kegels. also a toy to use for stronger kegels - betty's barbell. there are two balls on either side. one small, one large. start with the larger one, insert into your vagina and tighten your grip. after some practice you'll be able to switch to the smaller ball.

what about a ejaculation?
is that urine?

no. its not urine. ejaculate is fluid that is produced by the glands around the urethra. glands on the g spot.

for a long time women were ashamed of ejaculation. they thought that sex was causing them to piss the bed when really they should have been enjoying their sexual peak. female ejaculation isn't abnormal but it's also not unusual for women not to know that they have ever ejaculated or to never have experienced it themselves. explore my lovely women.

recipe for an enjoyable g spot experience SQUI

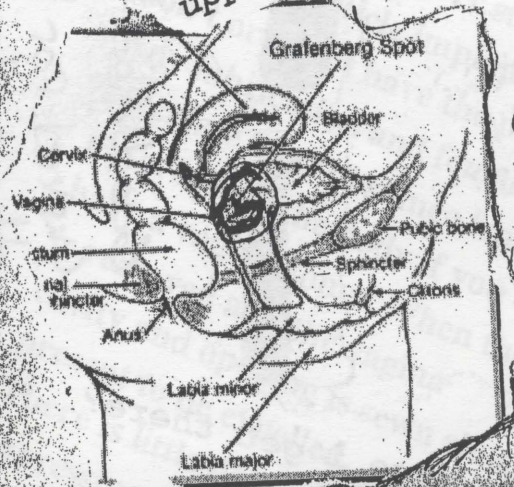

1. first step is to do whatever gets you all hot and wet. i personally recommend clitoral stimulation with fingers or vibrators (such as the itty bitty)

2. second insert fingers about two finger joints distance into vagina. you may want to use lube. g spot toys such as the crystal wand or the jelly crystal g which are curved to reach the that spot
3. third feel for a mound of flesh
4. fourth once your there, stroking and applied pressure as needed is recommended. use your own judgment. You'll know when your there.

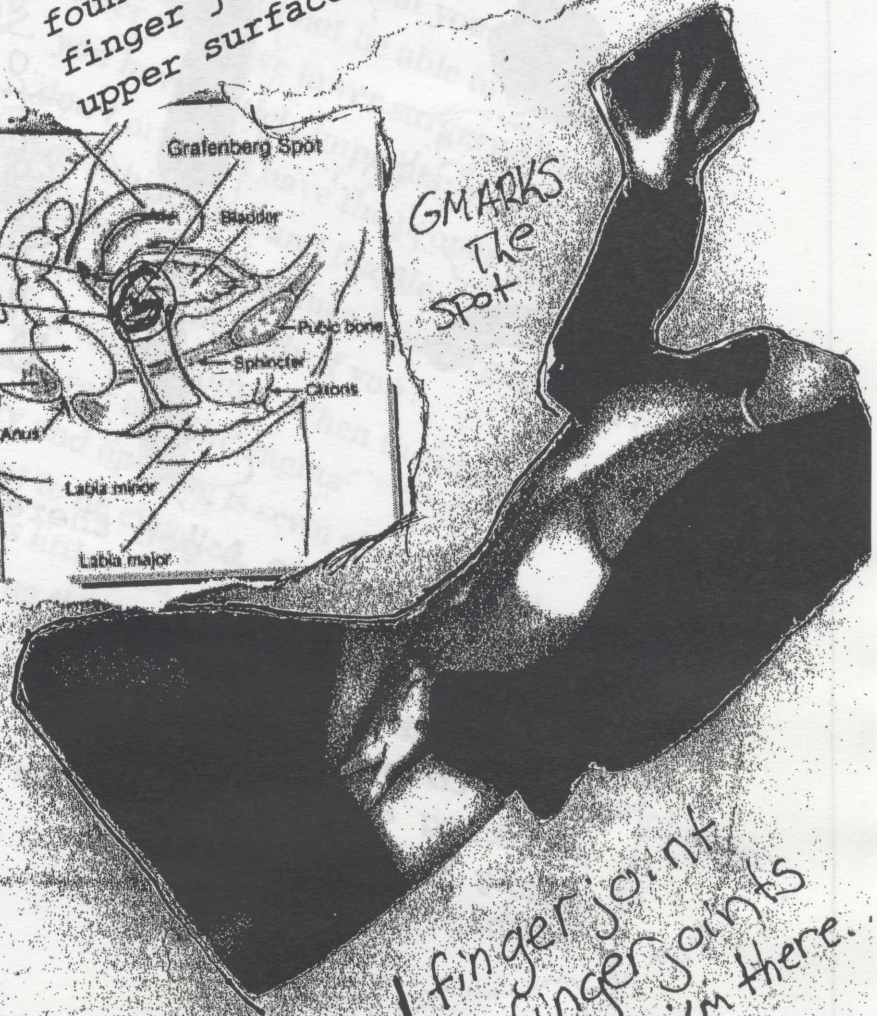

5. five to attempt ejaculation, once you feel that you are reaching a climax you may experience a sensation similar to needing to urinate. continue with stimulation in to whatever is happening, and give listen to your body, and ride the climactic wave of gushing wonderland.

where the hell is the g - spot ?
its located behind the pubic bone and around the urethra. it can be found by reaching up about two finger joints distance on the upper surface of the vagina.

what do i do once i get there?

often you'll need to apply deep pressure to find what seems to be the spot. stroking and massaging along with toy play can be highly pleasurable.

Also, no matter what you have been told, you will not be able to ejaculate after you have lower surgery or because you have testicle implants; you don't or won't have the proper plumbing. Any lubrication and female ejaculate like substance from orgasm will be absorbed by the body if you have a vaginectomy. When the inner vaginal layer is removed and the vagina cavity and opening is sewn shut, no fluid will be present to be expelled. There is little data who has had the surgery expressing the ability to ejaculate through the new phallus.

Also, no matter what you have been told, you will not be able to ejaculate.
