VAGINAL DAVIS RETURNS TO SAN FRANCISCO

On Friday, June 10th, legendary Los Angeles drag queen militant sex activist Vaginal Davis returns to San Francisco for a rare evening of intimate transgressive entertainment to benefit Stephen Parr's video profile of sm and sexuality in San Francisco, The Erotica Project, directed by Midori Herring. Due to the graphic nature of this performance entitled "Sucking My Unborn Cock" Ms Davis will perform at a secret Mission District loft location. *As noted above The donation is $10 and is open to invited guests only. For more details, reservations and the location of this event contact Stephen Parr at 558.8112.

Davis, who grew out of the bowels of the Watts Projects took her name after the militant 60s leftist Angela Davis and raged through the punk rock DIY culture of the late 70s. She's honed her stage skills as a performer in numerous musical groups including the speed metal thrash band Pedro, Muriel and Ester, the funkified gospel drag spectacular The Afro Sisters and is currently the lead singer of !Cholita!, a twisted eight piece "all female" version of the Latin pop group Menudo.

Davis is widely known for her outrageous, gender bending performances in nightclubs, galleries, colleges and universities as well as on film and videotape. Most recently she appeared in Ruby Wax's "Ruby Takes You There" for the BBC and played the part of Luscious Loreli in Armstead Maupin's "Tales of the City" for PBS. She is the editor of the widely circulated cult zines Fertile LaToya Jackson and Shrimp. The Los Angeles Times(of all publications) said of Davis: "Vaginal Davis breaks all your preconceived notions about the black and the gay experience." and "More truth than most whites will want to hear in a lifetime".

In tonight's rare appearance Ms Davis promises some "special surprises" as she dishes up her delectably decadent brand of genderbending mayhem.
